

Life in Amritsar.—A picturesque street singer of Amritsar. Many disorders have occurred there which have been sternly suppressed by troops, but still has not suppressed the singing voice of the itinerant troubadour.

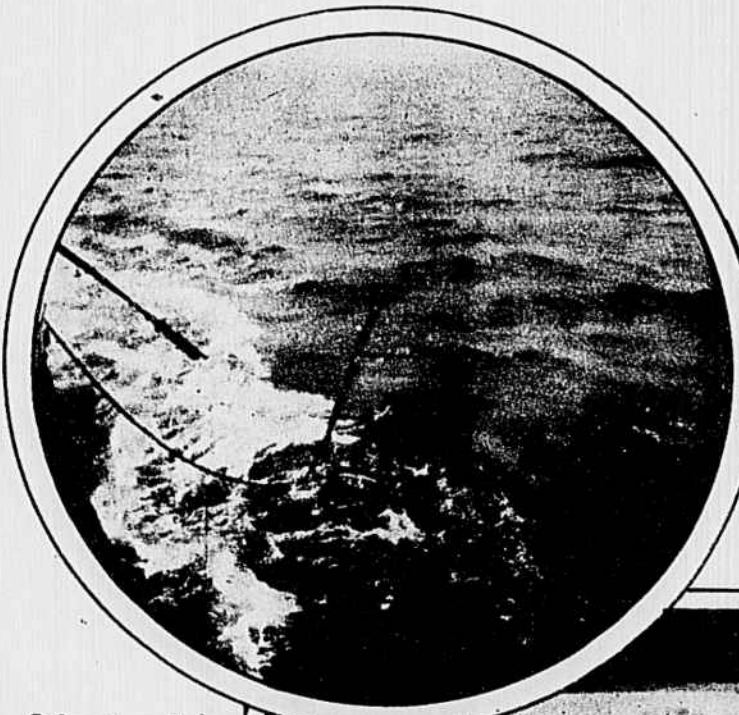

Makes Hazardous Jump.—During some recent air maneuvers at the Army Flying Field of Long Island, one of the spectacular features was the leaping from airplanes, thousands of feet in the air, of daring aviators via the parachute route. The photograph shows one of the aviators after making a perilous jump.

(Below). Two Daring Aviators.—One of the thrilling events of an aerial meet held at Mitchell Field, Long Island, was the double parachute jump by two Army aviators, who leaped from a swift-going plane thousands of feet above the earth. So well was the jump timed that the two leapers shown in the photograph reached terra firma almost simultaneously.

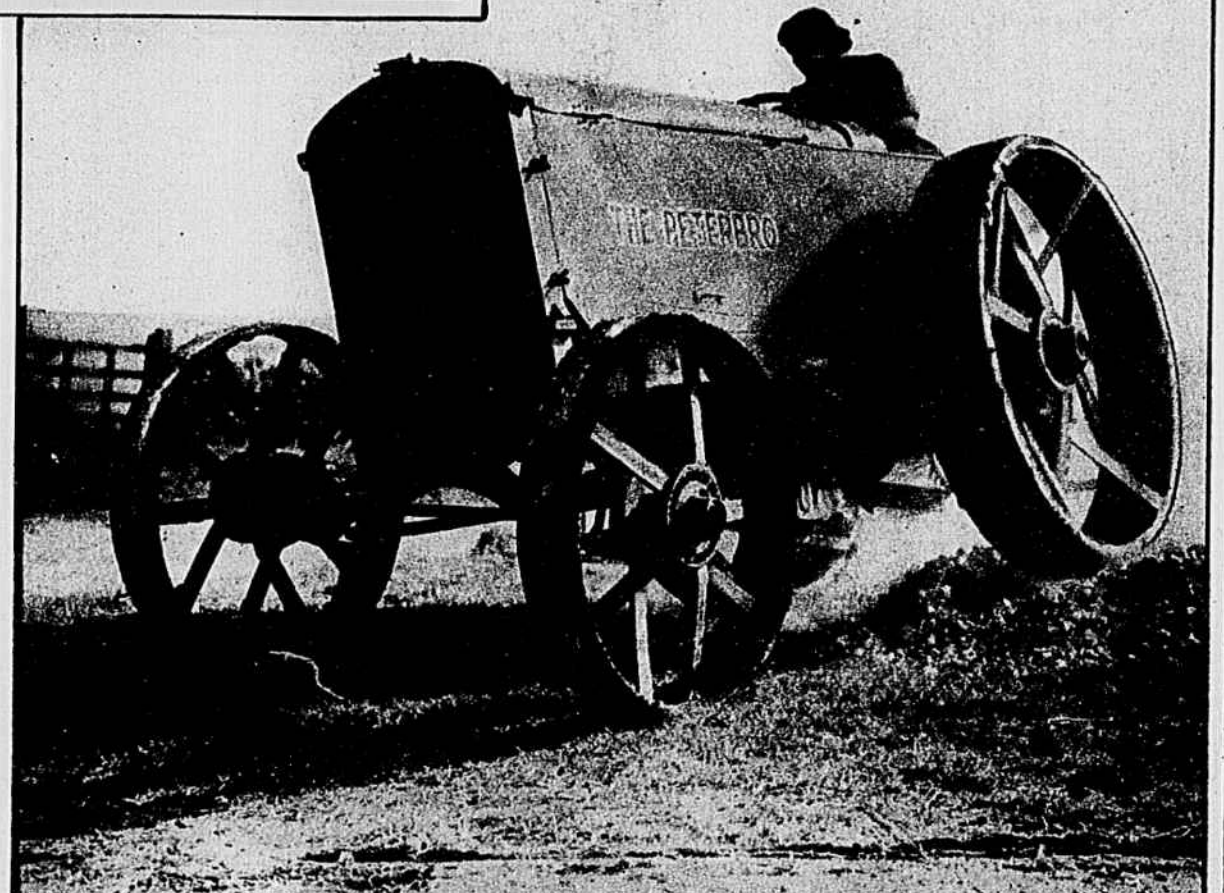

A New Fad.—Monkeys are coming into their own again, as is evidenced by the above photograph. Society ladies have discarded their Chows and their Griffins for the chattering company of the Marmoset.

Salvaging Submarine.—During some recent naval maneuvers off the Coast of Ireland, the submersible U. C. 5, sprang a leak and was put out of commission. The photograph shows a lighter bringing the crippled undersea boat to port.

The Historic Pilgrim Club Dinner.—An historical photograph taken during the Pilgrim Club's dinner, at which Colonel George Harvey, American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, was the principal speaker. The photograph shows, from left to right: the Duke of York, Colonel Harvey, the Duke of Connaught, and the British Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George.

A Tractor Chaufferette.—Miss Elsa Green feels the thrill of driving a ponderous tractor. Miss Green has always been interested in driving motor vehicles and handles the tractor with the skill of a mechanic.
